Lesson 1	Understanding the Nature of Religion
Day 1	Topic: Belief Systems & Worldviews

Pre-Assessment: Name that Religion

Name all the belief systems/religions that you know. Write your answer here:

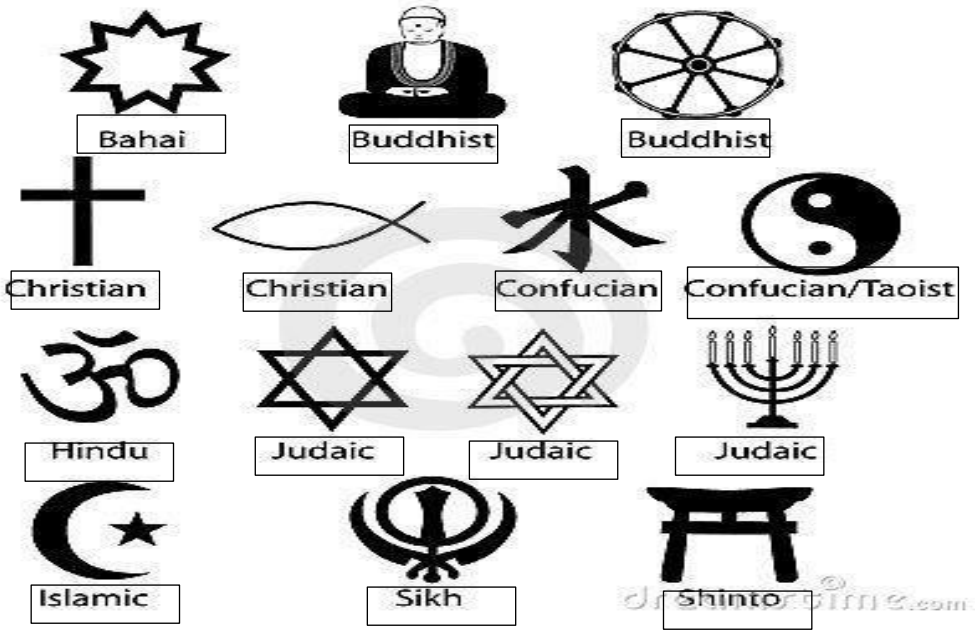
Do you have a religion or belief?

What do I know about it?

What do I want to know about it?

Activity 1. I Saw the Sign

Directions: Identify the people who were deemed to be founders of the following religions:



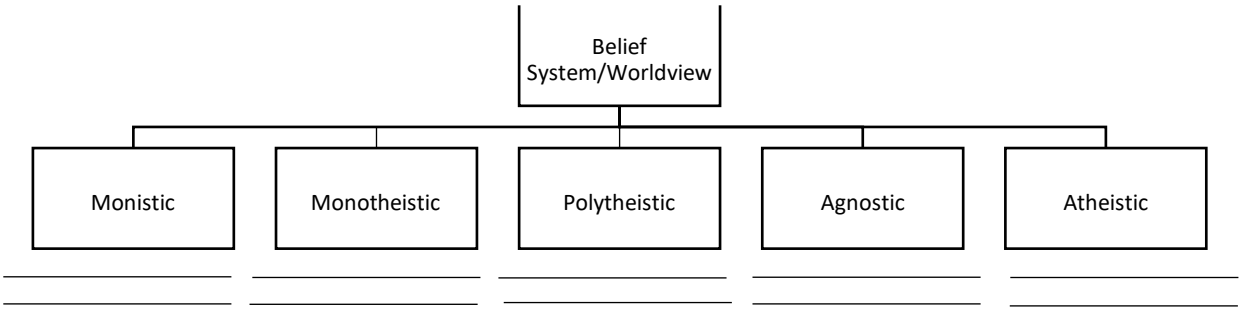
Do you believe in God? Do you follow the Ten Commandments in the Bible? Are you a DDS or Dilawan? Do you believe in Karma? Do you believe in life after death? When it comes to human nature, do you believe that we are inherently selfish or selfless? These are all great examples of different types of belief systems. A belief system is an ideology or set of principles that helps us to interpret our everyday reality. This could be in the form of religion, political affiliation, philosophy, or spirituality, among many other things. These beliefs are shaped and influenced by a number of different factors. Our knowledge on a certain topic, the way we were raised, and even peer pressure from others can help to create and even change our belief systems.

The convictions that come from these systems are a way for us to make sense of the world around us and to define our role within it. Belief systems are something that affects our everyday lives.

What is a worldview? As the word itself suggests, a worldview is an overall view of the world. It's not a physical view of the world, but rather a philosophical view, an alien compassing perspective on everything that exists and matters to us. Worldviews also largely determine people's opinions on matters of ethics and politics.

Activity 2: Concept Map

Directions: Read the text below and describe the 5 known belief systems/worldviews.



Kinds of Belief Systems or Worldviews

Theism, often used as a synonym to monotheism, is defined as "a belief in the existence of one god viewed as the creative source of the human race and the world that transcends yet is immanent in the world" (Merriam-Webster Dictionary, 2014). Monotheistic religions claim that there is only one God who could have designed and created the universe or may have directed all events that led to the creation of everything. There is one supreme God who is both personal and moral and who seeks a total and unqualified response from humans (Hick, 1990). Modern-day examples of monotheistic religions include Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. On the other hand, polytheistic religions that are common among early people recognize many principal gods among whom no one is supreme. These include the ancient religions of Egypt, Greece, and Rome wherein people worship a multitude of personal gods. Meanwhile, monism asserts that there is no genuine distinction between God and the universe. Two implications arise from this belief. First, it contends that God is dwelling in the universe as part of it. And second, the universe does not exist at all as a reality but only as a manifestation of God. Furthermore, while atheists deny the existence of God, agnostics deny the possibility for man to acquire knowledge of the existence of God.

Assessment

I.Describe the kinds of belief system of the world. Write your answer on the box.

5. Excluding Christianity and Islam, what is the top 5 most followed religion in the world?_____
6. Make a pie graph featuring top 5 biggest religion in the world according to population. Use the space below

Converting to Islam requires three main things: a formal statement of faith (shahadah) in front of one to three witnesses; proclaiming there is only one God, that Muhammad is God's prophet; and converting freely, not by force.

DEFINITION AND NATURE OF RELIGION

According to the dictionary, religion involves "belief in and reverence for a supernatural power or powers regarded as creator and governor of the universe." It is "a personal or institutionalized system grounded in such belief and worship." Religion may be defined as “an organized system of beliefs, ceremonies, and rules used to worship a god or a group of gods” (Merriam-Webster Dictionary 2014). The Latin word religio refers to “something done with overanxious or scrupulous attention to detail” (Bowker 1997). This term may have probably been derived from the Latin verb religare which means “to tie together, to bind fast.” In its original sense, the word refers to expression of proper piety, that is, binding to god (Grassie 2010). Quite later, religion was used to designate formal belief systems and tenets. The term was eventually applied to what we now call as religion because of the manner in which people performed rituals during those days. While religion may be universal in all stages of human history, it does not follow that all individuals are religious or even religious to some degree (Parrinder 1971).

ORIGINS OF RELIGION

Since the nineteenth century, people began to show great interest in explaining the origins of religion. In fact, numerous theories have been postulated to explain the origin of religion while looking at primitive societies for ideas concerning the development of belief systems (Hendry 1999). Archaeologists believe that they have discovered elements of religious belief practiced by Homo sapiens almost 60,000 years ago. Apart from burying the dead, various items such as foods, tools, and other objects were placed inside the site. Three common elements of religion Wisdom - sacred writings and oral tradition Worship - rituals express the emotional experience to have the right attitude toward God and others Works - Holiness in action or daily lives, commandments to live by.

Assessment

Directions: Fill in the blanks. Write your answer on the space provided.

1. _____ may be defined as "an organized system of 2. _____, ceremonies, and rules used to worship a god or a group of gods". Lesson 1 Day 3	Understanding the Nature of Religion Topic: Religion & Spirituality

Pre-Assessment: You Decide

I believe in spirit because_____

I consider myself spiritual because_____

EXPLORING SPIRITUALITY

A comparative analysis of major religions reveals that an important characteristic of their belief system focuses on the longing for value in life (Parrinder 1971). For thousands of years, people have been searching and yearning to understand the mystery of life and the universe. There may come a point in time when an individual realizes that life is not entirely accidental and meaningless (Parrinder 1971). This is where the concept of spirituality comes in with the term "spiritual" being defined as "relating or affecting the human spirit or soul as opposed to material or physical things" (Oxford Dictionaries 2014). One author points out that it is quite common for people to say that they are "spiritual, not religious" (Grassie 2010). Spirituality may be manifested in quite a number of ways. For example, a person may believe in the presence of an overwhelming power greater than oneself or perhaps a person can be fully mindful of one's purpose in life. That person can also have a feeling of oneness or a bond with other living beings. While spirituality is derived from the Latin word spiritus, its verb root is spirare which means "to breathe" literally. There is an impression that people are surrounded by a "divine reality as pervasive, intimate, necessary, and invisible as the air we breathe" which is similar to Hindu prana and Chinese chi. (Grassie 2010).

Spirituality is something an individual can have without being implicated in the ambivalent complexity of human societies and institutions (Grassie 2010). Thus, spirituality can be described as one's integrative view of life and involves a quest for the meaning and ultimate value of life as opposed to an instrumentalist or materialistic attitude to life. Hence, one can be spiritual without being religious.

What makes a person spiritual?

In Buddhism, Nirvana isn't a place reached through death but is instead a state achieved through enlightenment, which can sometimes take multiple reincarnations

Assessment

I. Answer the following questions.

1. How does religion help explain man's existence and role in the world?
2. Do you agree that the universe is designed and created by a single divine being or God? Explain your answer.
3. How can an individual lead a spiritual life? Cite some examples.

II. Match Column A with Column B. Write the letter of the correct answer on the blanks provided.

10. _____the systematic study of the existence and nature of the divine	j. spirituality

Lesson 1 Day 4	Understanding the Nature of Religion Topic: Character Sketch

Pre-Assessment: Test Your Belief

Directions: Read the questions below and reflect. Choose only one then explain

1. Do you worship any type of a deity or a God or a sect leader?
2. Do you believe in the power of your own self and that you are in charge of your destiny?

Note: If your answer is 1, then you're religious and if number 2, you are spiritual.

ON BEING RELIGIOUS

What is the difference between being religious and spiritual? This is the most commonly asked question by people who are spiritually curious. Being religious means belonging to an established religious order, whether large or small. This includes religions with billions of followers such a Christianity, Hinduism and Buddhism. And those with much smaller group of followers such as Bahaism, Zoroastrianism and Judaism.

However, most mystical sects are also religious as they worship the same deities and bow to the same prophets and icons as their base religion. For example, there is no Hindu mystical tradition as a standalone expression from the massive Hinduism religion because those smaller sects continue to worship the same Gods, such as Krishna or Shiva as the rest of the Hindus. The only difference is that they typically add one more icon which happens to be their sect leader, but at their core, they are just Hindus.

In short, if you bow to or recognize a deity or a God, being in the form of a stone, a picture or a statue or whether you choose to bow to an invisible God, you are not spiritual; you are religious. All yoga groups today in the West, as long as they worship the Hindu Gods are religious and belong to Hinduism and certainly not spiritual.

Spirituality is when you have elevated yourself from that of a slaved mind to an empowered mind. When you are transformed from one who begs through life to one who is self-reliant. Spiritual people have discovered there is only one true power and that is inside them and it doesn't come from an old man with a beard pointing a figure.

A spiritual person knows that a simple concept that may have been acceptable to primitive homo-sapiens of hundreds or thousands of years ago, has zero relevancy to today's sophisticated and much more elevated humans.

Spiritual person knows that there is only one truth and they are in fact in charge of their own evolution and destiny. They also know that nothing is "written" and all our futures are shaped by our desires and the power of our minds.

Activity: I Believe!

Directions: In the context of religion, list down 5 things that you believe in by completing the following statements. What have you observed in your own belief system?

I believe in/that_____
I believe in/that_____
I believe in/that_____
I believe in/that_____
I believe in/that_____

Assessment

Directions: On a separate paper, copy and answer the question below.

1. Do you consider yourself religious or spiritual? Explain your answer_____

2. Can a person be spiritual but not religious? Write in the box the characteristics of a religious and spiritual person

The three "main" gods (aka the "trimurti" or "three forms") worshiped by Hindus are Brahma the creator, Vishnu the preserver, and Shiva the destroyer. There are also many more gods and goddesses ("devas" and "devis") that are also acknowledged.

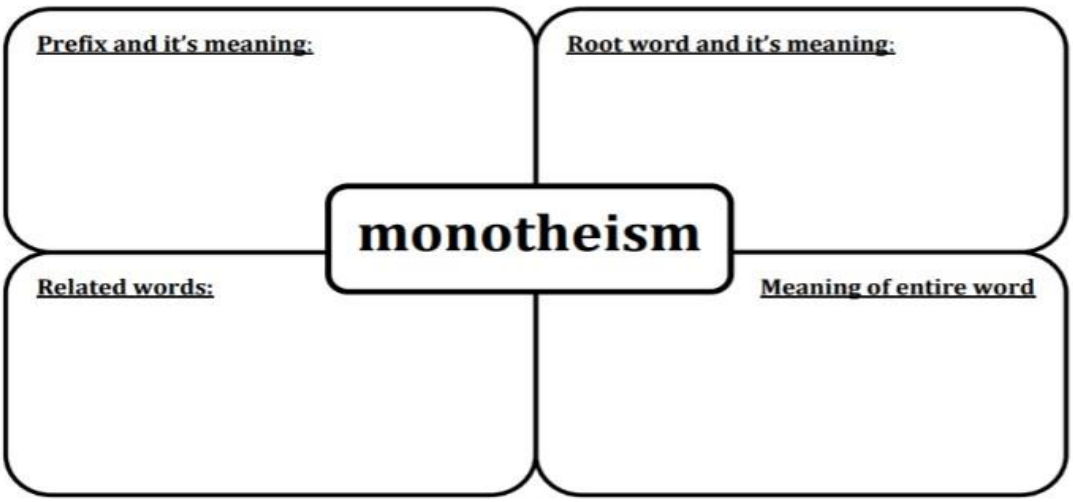
Write 3 ideas you can infer from the map of origins of world religion.

Activity 1: Cluster Map

Directions: Complete the cluster map based on your own prior knowledge.



HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

Scholars hold the view that religion is universal and can be found in all known contemporary societies (Ember & Ember 1997). Even the most fundamental of belief systems can be seen to a greater or lesser degree in all religions (Hopfe 1983). Various theories have been formulated to explain the origin of religion. Even prehistoric humans, such as the Neanderthals and Cro-Magnons, have practiced a set of belief systems in one way or another, including burying their dead, painting on the walls of caves, and carving images from stones.

The Patriarch Abraham

The prophet and patriarch Abraham played a major role in the establishment of the three monotheistic religions: namely, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam, which account for more than half of the world's total population at present. As such, these organized religions are collectively known as Abrahamic religions. The Jewish people regard Abraham as the ancestor of the Israelites, through his descendants Isaac and Jacob. The Muslims consider Abraham's son Ishmael as the ancestor of the Arabs. The Christians view Abraham as 'father in faith' as narrated in the Bible and the ancestor of Jesus Christ. Notable religious personalities trace their origin in Abraham's sons from different wives through their descendants. The importance of Abraham in these three religions lies in the fact that the patriarch appears as an elemental figure for a monotheistic belief system and a paragon of extreme devotion. Derived from a common source, it is but natural that the three monotheistic religions share some commonalities in their basic tenets. For one, they all worship one supreme being. The ancient Hebrews call their God Elohim, Adonai, or Yahweh. Present-day Judaism uses the names "Lord" and "God." For the Muslims, they call their God as Allah. In addition, prophets and apostles play major roles in these religions. Judaism has 48 prophets and seven prophetesses. Early prophets include Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, Aaron, and Joshua to name a few. In Christianity, the 12 apostles were the primary disciples of Jesus Christ, some of whom wrote parts of the New Testament. For the Muslims, they believe that Muhammad is the final prophet or the "Seal of the Prophets.

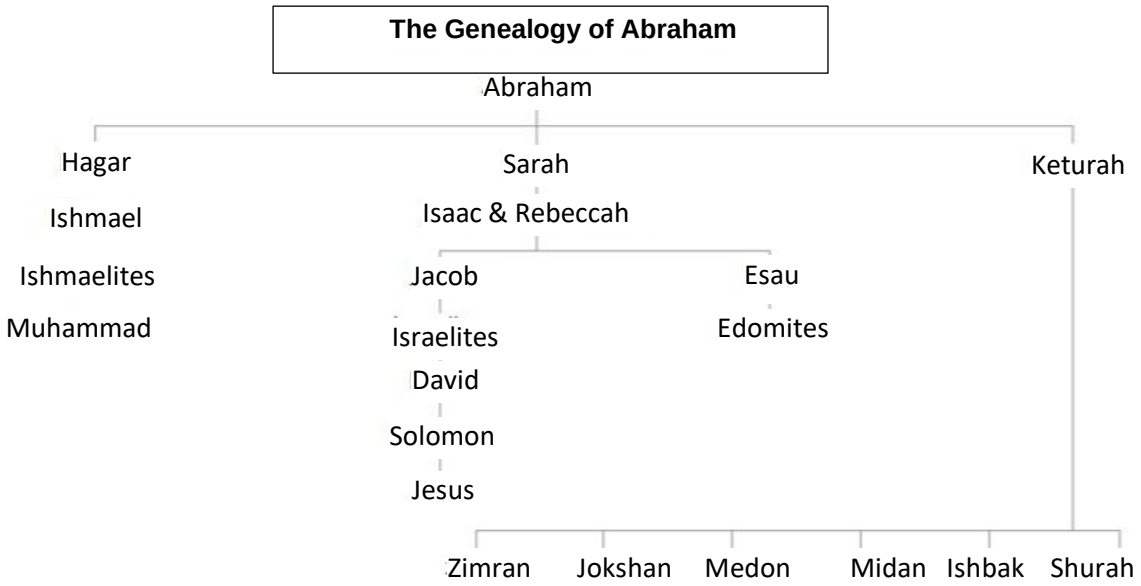
Activity 2. Genealogy of Abraham

Familiarize yourself with the diagram below showing the genealogy of Abraham. Can you identify some of the listed names based on your knowledge of your religion? Briefly write your answer below.



Assessment

A. Answer the following questions:

1. Who was Abraham and what role did he play on the origin of the three major religions?
2. How do Judaism, Christianity and Islam related?
3. How do these three religions call their God?
4. Name the major prophets of Judaism, Christianity and Islam.

THE CULTURAL MILIEU

World religions can be regarded along the lines of their exclusivity or non-exclusivity. Exclusive religions are oftentimes monotheistic with Judaism, Christianity, and Islam as examples. Meanwhile, non-exclusive religions are often polytheistic in nature. Examples of which are Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Taoism, and Shintoism.

India is one of the world's oldest surviving civilizations rich in customs, arts, languages, literature, beliefs, and many more facets of their culture. Religion is an essential part of the Indian tradition. Four great religions originated in India – Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, and Sikhism.

The concept of dharma is integral in religions that emerged in India, most especially Hinduism and Buddhism.

Chinese civilization is one of the world's oldest, dating back almost 4,000 years ago. Even during the olden days, the Chinese had already endeavoured to establish and attain good governance (Perry 1988). China adopted Kung Fu-Tzu's (Confucius) ideals and ethics as the nation developed meritocracy as a basis for government officials. Confucius is regarded as China's greatest philosopher.

Around 142 C.E., Daoism began as an organized religion with the establishment of the Way of the Celestial Masters sect by Zhang Daoling during the Han Dynasty. This group along with other later Daoist sects devised intricate rituals, venerated heavenly beings, and wrote numerous religious texts. Chinese culture practically influenced all other countries at its outskirts, including Japan and Korea. Chinese belief system arrived in Japan and influenced the local culture and the indigenous polytheistic religion Shinto.

Activity 1: Guess the Religion

Lesson 2 Day 3	Origins of World Religions Topic: Geography and Religion

Pre-Assessment: You Read. I Write.

The place of origin of the world religions falls into two geographical areas: the Middle East (Western Faiths) and the Far East. Ask your parent/guardian to read for you the text on the next page. Then jot down the region, country and the religion where it originated. Follow the format:

Middle East (Western Faith)	Country	Far East	Country

GEOGRAPHY OF FAITH

The study about geography of religion may reveal some fascinating truths why a certain country is predominated by one particular religion or why a specific region became homeland of great religions. Religion and geography is the study of the impact of geography, i.e. place and space, on religious belief. Another aspect of the relationship between religion and geography is religious geography, in which geographical ideas are influenced by religion, such as early map-making, and the biblical geography that developed in the 16th century to identify places from the Bible.

The Western Frontier West Asia is home of three great religions, namely, Judaism, Christianity, and Islam. After 1917, many Jews migrated from Europe to their ancient homeland, Palestine. In 1948, Israel was established after driving away the Palestinian Arabs who had been living in the area for centuries. The Arabian Peninsula, the world's largest peninsula, consists of countries that are predominantly Islamic in character. These countries include Saudi Arabia, Qatar, Bahrain, Kuwait, United Arab Emirates, Yemen, and Oman. What geographical features of this arid land could have influenced the growth, evolution, and expansion of these religions from the time of the great patriarch Abraham until the rise of the prophet Muhammad? Located directly south of Eastern Europe, West Asia contains some of the world's most desolate environments. The Arabian Peninsula situated on the northeastern part of Africa is almost completely a baking hot desert where no plants can thrive. The topography of West Asia is characterized by vast areas of mountainous terrains. Mountains play significant roles in many religious beliefs as these landforms provide ideal settings where gods live or where gods and mortals meet. At the eastern end of the great Asian continent one finds the cultural and political dominance of China. Stretching more than 5,000 kilometers across the Asian landmass, it is bordered by various bodies of water in the east and land borders in all other directions. Japan also had a fair share of China's influence that became entrenched in Japanese culture. The entry of Buddhism in Japan had a direct effect in the religious traditions of Japan and its reaction was fourfold.

Firstly, the name 'Shinto' was introduced to differentiate the native belief from the new foreign religions. Majority of Indians are Hindus. Buddhism, which originated in India, has been absorbed into the Hindu worldview (Kolanad 1994). Hindu religions foster tolerance as they coexisted peacefully for many generations in most parts of India. The concept of dharma is integral in religions that emerged in India, including Hinduism, Buddhism, Jainism, and Sikhism.

Activity: Trip to Jerusalem

Directions: Find a picture or map of Jerusalem using books or Internet sources. Try to identify the different religious structures erected in this sacred city.

Assessment

Directions: Briefly answer the following:

1. Describe the geography of the Western Asia where three major religions originated_____
2. Arabian Peninsula is the world's largest peninsula. Name the countries and their capital that belong to the peninsula.
3. Describe the topography of West Asia. How does it affect the religious beliefs of its people?
4. How did China's geography influence the beliefs of its neighboring countries like Korea and Japan?

- Pidyon Ha-Ben
- Rosh Hashanah
- Kosher Practice
- Sabbath
- Shavous
- Chanukah
- Passover
- Nisuin
- Yom Kippur

Jewish cultures and traditions can be traced in the Torah. Some of the notable traditions are as follow: Chanukah is observed for eight days. It commemorates the historic victory of the Jewish people against the ruling Assyrian-Greek regime and their Jewish supporters who conspired to impose restrictions against Jewish religious practices. Chanukah means "dedication." Shavuos commemorates the event when the Jewish people received the Torah at Mount Sinai. Passover commemorates the deliverance of the Jewish people from Egyptian bondage 3300 years ago. In Judaism, the ritual of Pidyon HaBen ("Redemption of the Son") is grounded in the Jewish concept that the first and best things belong to God. Kosher which means "ritually correct" and particularly refers to food preparations and consumptions. Anything in the water that has fins and scales is acceptable. This therefore excludes shellfish such as lobsters, oysters, shrimp, clams and crabs, all of which are forbidden. The climax of the Jewish spiritual year is Yom Kippur. Yom Kippur serves as an annual deadline for reconciliation, for expressing regret and asking for forgiveness. Rosh Hashanah is the Jewish spiritual New Year. It marks the start of a 10-day period of spiritual self-examination and repentance that culminates with Yom Kippur. The daily ritual of prayer consists of morning, afternoon, and evening prayers. The Star of David is a six-pointed star made up of two triangles superimposed over each other. In Judaism it is often called the Magen David, which means the "shield of David" in Hebrew.

Originated in the Middle East about 3500 Years ago, the birth of the Jewish people and the start of Judaism is told in the first 5 books of the Bible or the Pentateuch (Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy) revealed to Moses on Mt. Sinai. The Sacred Writings and Oral Traditions is also found in the Hebrew Bible is known as the Tanak.

It is divided into 3 sections - Torah - the Writings "wisdom books"- the Psalms, Proverbs, Song of Songs. Judaism is a monotheistic religion meaning it has a belief in one God. It was rooted in the promised land the modern-day Israel when God had Covenant with man through Abraham. God promised to make Abraham's descendants a great nation and he would be blessed with descendants and land (Genesis 12:1-3, 6-7) Hebrews had Oral Traditions called Mishnah which means "to repeat, to study". It deals with issues such as how to observe Shabbat, festivals, marriage, divorce, buying, selling. It is the part of the Law that was passed down orally, then put into writing. The teachings of the Rabbi which means "teacher". It is found in Talmud which contains the teachings of Jewish rabbis for the first few centuries. The purpose of the Talmud is to educate how to live out the Torah in daily life. Today, Judaism has around 13 million followers throughout the world. This makes it the smallest of the four main religions which have one God.
